Senior Vice Commandant Letter

Marines, FMF Corpsmen and Guests:

It has been an interesting time working with all the members of the Detachment as your Senior-Vice Commandant for the last couple of years. This will be my last report as Senior Vice since you elected me as your Commandant in February. I look forward to seeing you all at the April meeting. I want to thank all of you that voted for me, and for those that came to the Officer and Staff Installation on March 10th 2019.

The National Mid East Division Conference in Fredericksburg VA was well attended. I was able to get some one on one time with our National Commandant Wendell Web. With the new upgrade to their computer system at National, Paymaster's will now be able to get more timely information.

The Marine 4 Life program (helping discharged marines get jobs and other types of assistance) it is starting to get off the ground across the country. It is already alive and well in Raleigh NC and growing every day.

As most of you know we had a booth (for recruiting members) at The Met Life Global Technology Campus in Research Triangle Park. We had members of the Detachment staffing the table between 0730 till 1730. Thanks to all that helped James White and Jason Hall on this recruitment project.

James Cox has been working with me to get the New Team up and running.

My 4 Top Upcoming Priorities as Commandant will be:

Finalize the Memorial Day preparations.

- Getting the Recruiting Team which consists of Jr-Vice Jason Hall, Brooks Harris, Nate Griffin and Walter Atkinson up and running, just waiting for your contact names.
- Getting the Fund Raisers finalized as far in advance as possible.
- Making sure Adjutant Gene Taxis gets all the Help he needs to put out a great Scuttlebutt Newsletter. One of our past Commandant Suellen Beaulieu placed 2nd in the state for newsletter publications during her time as editor.
- The Manual for Detachment Officers shows areas our detachment can improve on. We will be working to get the Tar Heel Detachment back on track. We have a great team of officers and staff to accomplish this goal.

Looking forward to seeing all of you on April 3rd for our next meeting, when our Guest speaker will be Major Katharine Doyle.

*Semper Fidelis,
Bruce Goeden*

Marine Corps League Women's History Month

The Corps has always been fertile soil for firsts throughout our nation's history, and the promotion of Carol A. Mutter to become the nation's first female lieutenant general serves as a perfect case in point for Women's History Month.

Mutter achieved one-star brigadier general rank in 1991. Three years later Mutter became the first woman in the history of America's military to achieve two-star major general rank in 1994, and two years after that in 1996 she became the first woman to become a three-star lieutenant general in any American military branch. Born in 1945 in Greeley, Colorado, Mutter graduated in 1967 from officer candidate school at the University of Northern Colorado as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Mutter had a number of firsts during her 32-year career in the Corps:

- First woman to qualify as Command Center Crew Commander/Space Director at U.S. Space Command.
- First woman of flag rank (general officer rank) to command a major deployable tactical command.
- First woman Marine major general, and senior woman in all the services at that time.
- First woman nominated by a U.S. president (Bill Clinton) for three-star rank.
- First female lieutenant general in the U.S. Armed Forces.

During a 2014 interview for the documentary Unsung Heroes: The Story of America's Female Patriots, Mutter explains why she joined the Marine Corps during the early years of the Vietnam War.

"Because they're the best, there's no doubt about that," she said. "...

when I joined, (the Corps) was only one percent female and there were no women in the deployed forces at all. So, as long as the women were back in the rear doing the jobs that the men didn't want to do, there was not much of a problem."

The general has been recognized as a trailblazer by several different organizations. Among them is the National Women's Hall of Fame which inducted the general in 2017. Mutter retired from the Corps in 1999 and lives with her husband at their home in Lookout Mountain, Tennessee.

Chaplain's Corner

Jason Hall

This will be my last article as your Detachment Chaplain. I am very grateful for the opportunity to have served this Detachment. I have honestly enjoyed writing these articles every month and the research that I have done in the process has helped me grow both spiritually and intellectually. Your kind words about my articles have also inspired me to try and create something better each month. I hope that you will continue to do the same for the incoming Chaplain.

I hope that my time as Chaplain will have left you with a little more understanding of other faiths, the importance of closure, and the responsibility of each one of us to reach out to the people around us as we move through this life. I have told stories of my son, pulled headlines from current events, challenged you to look at your own faith from a different perspective, and discussed different religious observances from a few different faiths. If you have enjoyed the articles, I beg you to keep learning about the practices of religions other than your own. It may surprise you to learn about similarities and traditions you may share.

Moving forward, I am excited to be serving as your Detachment Junior Vice Commandant. I will still be available to help the Chaplain and you may even see one of my articles show up if I am asked to submit one as a guest. I am also happy to inform you that I have been serving as the Assistant Department Chaplain and hope to be selected in July as the next Department Chaplain. From that position I hope to serve the Department as well as I have served this Detachment. I am a firm believer that in this life, regardless of age, we must all continuously move forward. Staying stagnant and complacent is not good for anyone. It is the destroyer of faith, knowledge, and body alike. Feed your faith, feed your knowledge, and feed your drive to improve the yourself. This is the secret to making this world a better place.
